Studio Vocaire Interior Design focuses on delivering uniquely personal interiors and liveable experiences designed to bring homeowners together. Helmed by founder and principal Becky Vocaire, the studio specializes in soft, California modern style design while considering the home's architecture and clients' aesthetics and preferences. This method ensures each project is different and personal to her clients.

Vocaire began her career in commercial design. While not her passion, it prepared her well for a job in residential interior design. "I love discovering how a homeowner lives in their spaces and beautifully and intentionally customizing their home for them is a special privilege," she says.

She focuses on a modern yet timeless look, so a home can feel relevant for many years to come. With this approach, there's also a focus on intuitive design, taking into consideration everything such as where you put your hair dryer to whether or not you prefer percale or sateen sheets. "Your home should reflect you and be attuned to you," she says. "We believe in quality over quantity."

Vocaire believes that a happy client is the hallmark of a successful project, so she and her team focus heavily on the client experience, from discovery to placing the last pillow. The goal is for her clients to have a memorable and seamless process where Vocaire serves as their advocate every step of the way. This dedication has resulted in numerous accolades, including ASID Georgia Chapter's 2022 Design Excellence Award. Studio Vocaire Interior Design won Gold in the Residential Renovation/Existing Singular Space category.
